A ST. PETERSBURG dispatch says that the Siberian plague has again made its appearance in Russia. This is perhaps the most deadly of all diseases peculiar to cattle. Statistics show that in Russia, in 1877, 212,708 head of cattle and 23,630 head of horses died of it.

MR. LYNCH, the colored man who was cheated out of his seat in Congress by Gen. Chalmers, the hero of Fort Pillow, has been appointed Superintendent of the Census for Mississippi. A first rate chance is thus given him to show exactly how much bulldozing went on in the famous

How many children and women are saved by them? See other column.

has been received here from St.

Petersburg which announces that about one hundred persons were arrested last Saturday on the estate against Parole. The Bear led by two hundred yards until a mile from home, when Isonomy headed him and won in a canter by three lengths. Parole was beaten at a half mile from home, when Isonomy and eight seconds.

As a Good Listener.

To be popular, learn to be a good listener and to draw people out by asking "leading questions." Most people would rather talk than listen.

It is more interesting to them to tell of their own little exploits than to hear of the great doings of others.

Do not talk too much. "Wordy" people become wearisome in a short time. Do not dwell upon personal matters; they are not likely to prove interesting to others; however important they may seem to us. Leave self out of the question. Choose just the right word for the right place—say what you have to say in the fewest possible words and give the preference to small words.

The great fault with most people in conversation is that they talk for their own edification rather than for the pleasure of the listener. To be really entertaining, ask yourself what subjects are of the closest interest to your companion, consult his taste in the choice of themes, and so far as is consistent with honesty, in the manner of handling them. Always maintain your personal dignity, consult the taste and defer to the opinion of those around you. The true secret of real popularity is self-forgetfulness. Do not give the impression of telling all you know; rather say a little and indicate the possession of a latent power in reserve.

Do not throw aside the opinion of others if they differ from your own; rather weigh it carefully against your own and extract from it whatever of truth and reason it may contain. Avoid arguments; they seldom lead to conviction, often to ill temper.

Mark Twain's Horse

"Gentleman, this horse of mine was so tough-bitted, and he went so fast that I had to guide him by electricity—had to have wire lines and keep a battery in the wagon all the time in order to stop him."

"Why didn't you stop him by hollering who-a?" I asked.

"Stop him by hollering who-a?"

Why I couldn't holler loud enough to make that horse hear me.

He traveled so fast that no sound ever reached from behind. He went faster than the sound, sir. Holler who-a! and he'd be in the next town before the sound of your voice could reach the dashboard. Travel fast?

I should say he could. I once started from Virginia City to Meadow Creek right in front of one of the most
